Responsibility for the Dynamite Plots to Be Placed Where It Belongs.

Davitt's Testimony Before the Parnell Commission Promises to Be Startling.

At Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

ONDON, June 22.—Davitt has been notified to appear before the Parnell Commission next Wednesday. He told your correspondent that he should not be afraid to speak his mind freely. His evidence promises to be one of the sensational events of the Commission. It is now reasonably certain that before the Commission winds up, evidence will be produced to show the direct complicity of agents of the English Government in dynamite plots and in outrages in Ireland for which honest men are now in prison. In one case there is not a shadow of doubt that the dynamite was provided by agents of these same agents.

Measures, Timothy, Harrington and Thomas Schreiber will testify before the Parnell Commission next week. It is said to-night at the request of Mr. Parnell, Michael Davitt will not testify until the defense closes its case, when Sir Charles Russell will ask the court to permit Mr. Davitt to address the court in his own behalf before giving formal evidence. Mr. Davitt proposes to show that "Jim" McDermott, when residing in Hamburg, offered to disclose before the commission the intrigues of the Government agents who had connived at outrages. Mr. Parnell, however, was adverse to testifying with McDermott or any other person of his character, and the offer was declined. The Times will recall Mr. Parnell before the case is closed, and will also re-examine Le Caron in rebuttal of Mr. Parnell's evidence. The closing speech of the defense has been assigned to Mr. Aquith.

CRUELTY IN IRISH JAILS.

The many political prisoners at present confined in the Irish jails are denied access to the daily newspapers, and not a scrap of information from the outside world is permitted to reach their cells. Some indignation is caused here by the revelation of the most extreme to which this rule is enforced. By the special direction of the judges of the Special Commission, now in session, Mr. John O'Connor and Mr. Condon, two of the imprisoned agitators were ordered to be supplied with reports of the evidence. The reports they got were cut out of the newspapers and what was their mortification on receiving the cuttings to find the backs of them were pasted over with brown paper, so that the prisoners should have no chance of reading a stray paragraph of news telling them what was going on in the outer world. A home rule member of Parliament announces his intention of calling the attention of the Government through a question in the House to this piece of heartless cruelty.

THE NEVERLANDS.

A rough sea was running when fishermen sighted the Neverlands to-day off the coast of Ireland. There was no chance to stop with the three men on board. Capt. Lawler haled the fishermen and said all were well, and that we wanted to proceed to Havre as fast as possible. He took his station in the city of Havre, but had only thirty-two days on the passage. He had no need to stop for food or assistance. He had seen much rough weather and some fog, but the voyage was even better than he expected.

GEORGE IN ENGLAND.

Henry George is addressing 20,000 Northumbrian miners at their annual convention to-day. The orator for this occasion is always chosen by ballot. This is the first time the honor has been given an American. George told them the only way to do anything to save their wages is to strike for their natural rights in the name of equal property in the ground. All other measures are merely palliative. George addressed a large meeting at Amsterdam Wednesday night. He says that the single-tax idea in France and Holland is just where it was in America in 1888.

THE MAYERICK CASE.

Mr. Mayerick's trial comes on next month. Sir Charles Russell is taking intense interest in the case and will probably conduct the defense. They are selling comic songs on the streets of Liverpool mixing up the names of Mrs. Maybrick and Brierley. The report is that, owing to the strong feeling about the matter in Liverpool, the case will be brought to London for trial.

A FATHER'S PENITENT.

A murder and attempted suicide of the most sensational character occurred today in a small village within a stone's throw of the palace of the Archbishop of Canterbury. Nathaniel Curran had confided his daughter to George Curran, known as George.

the bazaar. Some time after her engagement in the company her father heard reports which led him to believe that she was abused and ill-treated. He had the manager charged at Cardiff last October with cruelty to the girl. The man was acquitted. The girl returned to her home and died three months afterwards of consumption. The unhappy father brooded over the circumstances until he became insane. Seeing Letitia outside the Lambeth Music Hall he attacked him with a knife and stabbed him to death. He then put the revolver to his own mouth and fired. He was picked up writhing by the corpse of his victim. Examination proves that he is not fatally hurt. He raves of his daughter's wrongs and is glad they are avenged.

EMPEROR WILHELM'S VISIT.

It is now settled that the German Emperor will not arrive in England until Saturday, August 5, when he is to reach Solent in his yacht, Hohenzollern, escorted by a squadron of man-of-war.

A DEFENDANT POWER.

Servia's Helplessness—The National Hope—An Historic Anniversary.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

VIENNA, June 22.—OLITICAL and diplomatic circles in Central Europe are very much disturbed over Servian affairs. Much concealed anxiety undoubtedly prevails regarding the possible results of diplomatic intercourse of Austrian statesmen with Servia during the next few weeks respecting Austrian interests in that little State, and also as to what action Austrian authorities in Bosnia and Herzegovina will take in the matter of the 3,000,000 Serbs in those provinces celebrating the anniversary of the battle of Kosovo. Servia itself is not such a military power as is generally believed. The regular army at the present moment numbers 18,000 men. Servia possesses about 100,000 Muster-soldiers, but an equal number are needed. Credit is at the lowest ebb and the little State is already weighed down with a debt of about 300,000,000 francs.

BOUND HAND AND FOOT.

The projected railway line to traverse Servia diagonally from Negotin and the Roumanian frontier to Rasika and the Ibar Valley, and ultimately to find its continuation across Kossovo and Albania to the Adriatic, is a state concern for want of funds, and the engineers employed are clamoring for their money. Commercially the country is bound hand and foot by the inglorious treaty forced upon it by Austria-Hungary, and the crippled finances of the state have reacted in the most prejudicial manner on the military strength of the country. In their financial policy the chief aim of the radical ministry is to liberate the country from foreign dependence. The commercial treaty with Austria has still three years to run, but it will be denounced at the earliest possible moment. In another direction the government is endeavoring to obtain good trade results by redeeming important commercial concerns in the country from the hands of foreign corporations. Thus the Servian railway is to be taken from the Vienna Landkarte, and the Comptoir D'Escompte, the salt monopoly, from the Anglo-Austrian and the tobacco monopoly from the Laenderbank.

In the meantime the intervention of the present ministry to interpret the new constitution in a liberal spirit and to secure among other objects the liberty of the press and the right of public meeting. There can be no doubt that the existing government in Servia represents the true sentiments of the vast mass of the people. There is hardly a peasant in the country who would address a minister or even one of the regents in any other terms than as "brother" (brother) and for the first time in recent history the title is deserved.

WHAT AUSTRIA FEARS.

In a recent interview M. Grue, Servia's Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, said: "Austria is alarmed at the near proximity of Servia, having a strong constitutional government. The consequences of the radical triumph cannot fail to make themselves felt in the foreign, as well as in the home politics of the country. The despotic regime of the last eight years of King Milan's reign so identified himself with Austria's policy and was to such an extent propped up by Austrian support that the abdication of King Milan is regarded as nothing less than a disaster at Vienna. Austrian influence in Servia has hopelessly compromised itself by its alliance with King Milan's reactionary government as well as by its grasping financial policy, which wrongs the weakness and political needs of Servia. The existing commercial treaty. But above these causes there is one permanent and constantly active cause of estrangement and that is the Austrian occupation of the Servian provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

PEACE CONFERENCES.

Important Gatherings at Paris—Inadequate Railway Facilities.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, June 22.—Two important Peace Conferences will be held in Paris during the next ten days. The first, which is to be entitled the Universal Peace Congress, will begin to-morrow and is expected to last five days. To this Congress representatives of peace societies throughout the world will be sent.

The second conference will be held at the Daire of the Sixth Arrondissement in the place of St. Sulpice.

The second conference will be composed of representatives of various parliaments, whose special object will be to conciliate interests and promote peace. It will be preceded by arbitration between America, Great Britain, France and other countries. It will meet at the same place on the 24th and 25th of June. Members of the British, Italian, Australian, German, Swiss, Belgian and Danish Parliaments and the American Congress will be present. The conference is being convened by joint committees of French and British members of Parliament who were charged with that duty at the preliminary conference held in Paris in October last.

JACQUES MEYER'S SENTENCE.

Jacques Meyer, the basket-shop broker, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment and $1,000 fine. He numbered many of the American colony amongst his victims. Society women and actresses took their savings to him. Christine Nilsson was let in for nearly $20,000.

INADEQUATE RAILWAY FACILITIES.

Despite the fact that railroad companies are running everything that will float the facilities for getting to Paris are woefully inadequate. Some day or another the banquet, and the monastery of Trivisa, in the Bavarian mountains where the embalmed body of Cesare Borgia is still preserved."

THE CONFISCATED RAILWAY.

The report comes from Paris that the French Government has sent some sort of ultimatum to the Servian regency on the subject of the railway which the Servian Government has just confiscated. The road referred to was built by a French company, which still owns it. The government at Belgrade on the plea that the company, though dividing 30 per cent annually on its capital, was running the road without regard to the convenience of its patrons, took the lines into its own hands and now operates them. Serious international complications have grown out of this step, and the outcome is awaited with considerable interest.

AT THE SWORD'S POINT.

The Young German Military Element Anxious for a Bout With Russia.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, June 22.—The Hamburger Nachrichten, the National Zeitung and the Schlesische Zeitung represent the situation as unchanged and pretend to think that Russia has no intention of attacking Germany. On the other hand the Berlin Post, the Cologne Gazette and the Kreis Zeitung declare that the rapid and enormous increase Russia's armament is a clear and a whole explanation of her reasons and intentions necessary to repel any outbreak which is impending. The opposition press curiously explains this conflict of opinion by asserting that Count Von Waldersee also has his press bureau and is even managing to lay cuckoo eggs in the editorial sanctum of Prince Bismarck bodyguards papers. Well informed persons in diplomatic and military circles do not deny that Waldersee has with him military young Germans, that unitary quantity which is impatiently awaiting Germany's demand for an early settlement with Russia and France at the point of the sword. This is so clearly the case that Prince Bismarck has actually had the utmost difficulty in preventing the Kaiser, whose sympathies are with Count Von Waldersee, from allowing that impetuous General to have his own way, thereby upsetting the Chancellor's plans.

The Wachschule declares that responsible persons are now puzzled to imagine the source of the new war now published in the government paper. The North German Gazette (the Chancellor's organ), in an article referring by induction to the confusion of statements, surprises, etc., significantly remarks that in 1867 Count Von Molte urged King William of Prussia to declare war against France, while Prince Bismarck eloped last night for his home in Cincinnati after a brief visit to the United States to be from Chicago, carried a red flag in his hand. Turners in every hall. Turners in the Zoo Garden, Turners in the Art Museum, Turners on the hill tops. Turners in all the parks and Turners everywhere. They had discarded the old-time duck-leaf summer suit and straw hat with oak-leaf decoration, and were clad, as a rule, in national navy blue from collar to heel and wore soft drab hats with gay colored bands.

THE TURNER FESTIVAL.

THE GREATEST THROB CINCINNATI HAS EVER KNOWN.

St. Louis Represented by a Large Contingent—First Formal Meeting of the Society at Music Hall Yesterday—Preparations to Contest for the Athletic Prize—The Colors Carried by Chicago.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., June 22.

ANY a day and night have passed since there was such a crushing throng upon the streets of Cincinnati as there has been to-day and as there is to-night.

It is the occasion of the twenty-fifth annual National Turner Festival, which began to-day. In day time it was all bustle and preparation.

To-night it's go as you please. During the afternoon newcomers who had registered and settled in quarters went about sightseeing. It was Turners in every hall. Turners in every street-corner. Turners in the Zoo Garden, Turners in the Art Museum, Turners on the hill tops. Turners in all the parks and Turners everywhere. They had discarded the old-time duck-leaf summer suit and straw hat with oak-leaf decoration, and were clad, as a rule, in national navy blue from collar to heel and wore soft drab hats with gay colored bands.

THE CHICAGO DELEGATION.

There is a rumor afoot to-night and no where is it more current than among the Turners themselves that a delegation to-day, said to be from Chicago, carried a red flag in their procession. Whether this be true or false it is making hot blood and to-morrow if that red flag is displayed there will be some quick German music in Cincinnati. It is not long since there was a lot of racket among the Chicago Turners because of the religious meetings of some of their societies. The Chicago delegations here to-day wear their colors in their hand bands and they are the national colors—the red, white and the blue. Some of the Chicago societies, however, wear the red as bands. Whether this bloody wear has any anarchy in it or not it causes the wearer of it to be eyed askance and scrutinized.

The decorations of the city, especially over the Rhine, are profuse. Bands of black, red and white on flags said to signify "From darkness through blood to light," wave before the breeze everywhere keeping time to the flutter of the stars and stripes, and of banners waving a welcome to the visitors.

AT MUSIC HALL,

At Music Hall to-night was a great crowd of Turners and citizens, at the first formal meeting of the festival. Col. Gustav Tafel, the chief officer for all patriotic organizations, gave his departure this evening for his new post of duty, Natchez, Miss. He was escorted to the depot by a brilliant mounted cavalry followed by several bands of the Knights of Columbus. One of the Knights, the Catholic Knights of America and Ired Fire Co. No. 12, quoted a number of ladies and children in the ranks of the Knights, who were with priests brought up the rear of the column.

ARCHBISHOP ELDER left last night for his home in Cincinnati after a brief visit to the United States to be from Chicago, carried a red flag in his hand. Turners in every hall. Turners in the Zoo Garden, Turners in the Art Museum, Turners on the hill tops. Turners in all the parks and Turners everywhere. They had discarded the old-time duck-leaf summer suit and straw hat with oak-leaf decoration, and were clad, as a rule, in national navy blue from collar to heel and wore soft drab hats with gay colored bands.

FROM COURT TO CHURCH.

Lord Dangan's Matrimonial Affairs—American of Means.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, June 22.—ESPITE the small crop of war rumors this week, they have not been strong enough to divert public attention from the trials of the Irish. For that aristocratic health loyally served to the Democratic Party, all serious topics have been abandoned. As long as the bank rate remained unchanged, let the hoarse mutterers of war say what they pleased, and all their utterances have relegated to the field of stock-jobbing operations.

But one uncanny fact staring the world in the face is the dispute between Germany and Switzerland over the Wohlgemuth affair. This is fraught with danger. Should Bismarck push his policy of intimidation too far and presume to infringe upon the rights and touch the neutrality of Switzerland, there would be trouble. Too many and too vital interests are involved to allow of the seeking of that wise position of independence which has been pronounced to be in the nature of a "Prize of God" in its津々.

The Wachschule declares that responsible persons are now puzzled to imagine the source of the new war now published in the government paper. ASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.—The few Missourians who remain here are disengaged. The disappointments which have recently followed in quick succession have deprived them of hope, and it may be the result of their paucity of efforts, until now but little can be said, except that they are hanging on.

Early they came with a flourish of trumpets and blowing of horns. The Representatives in Congress unwisely interpreted their first information from the Executive as to organizing themselves into a board of dictators and to distribute at large the names of whom they had agreed upon to send abroad as foreign representatives. The intention was that they should quietly submit their recommendations for consideration. The noise and clamor which followed this first misapprehension and error was not only unpleasant to the powers that be, but embarrassing, and a line of policy was inaugurated which will now probably preclude any Missouri Representative from occupying a place in the foreign service of the country. The majority of those persons already selected to go abroad have had some previous experience in the diplomatic business, and it is said that the contention and political warfare over positions in this branch of service has led to the move whereby the diplomatic and consular service shall be established entirely without the control and influence of politics; that men will be selected according to fitness for the work, with a view of bringing about such an organization as exists in Germany, England and France with a permanency attached to it. As to George Bain, Chauncey I. Filey, Charles Pope and other Missourians, it is said that the President never for a moment calculated upon their selection, or any one of them, and that Mr. Filey

COULD NEVER HAVE GONE ABOARD if he had wanted to do so; furthermore that none of the Missouri applicants for the foreign service were in the mind of the President's idea of being "peculiarly fitted," excepting Mr. Waldo of Lexington. All encouragement ever given came through the State Department, and all of who have ever had the least encouragement but one of the number remains here, Col. Weightman of Kansas City, who desires to succeed ex-Congressman Ben Franklin at Hanz Chow, China. Senator L. L. Bridges, with all the assistance at his command, found that same chance waiting him which others before him took and good-naturedly and wisely returned to his home. Of all the stirring men who come here from Missouri, Representative Wade knows best of what he is going to do with his name, and he is not likely to start for home to-day, but will not go until to-morrow. During his ten days' stay here he has accomplished nothing in the way of appointments, and, as far as possible, has been in touch with the Secretary of the Treasury who heard him at length upon the change in Col. Switzer's place and will do something for him when he returns. He started for home to-day, but will not go until to-morrow. During his ten days' stay here he has accomplished nothing in the way of appointments, and, as far as possible, has been in touch with the colonel to get the postmastership at Pierco City, returns with him, but does not hold him responsible.

THE JOYFUL AND THE SAD. Judge Sex of Union, Mo., has taken a trip down the Potowmack after having received from his friend a sum of $100. His wife died last year, and his son, a young man, who wants to go into the Secret Service, Commissioner Tanner agreed to day to appoint a new pension board at Cathege, for the "farmer." The pension board, consisting of Col. W. H. Brice, D. R. Rucker, Col. Hudson, ex-Minister McLane, Admirals Rodgers and Franklin, Judge Hoag and F. B. Sands, will be appointed to-morrow. The pension board has already subscribed over $35,000 in bonds.

The Ward—Adler Shooting. By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.—Since yesterday afternoon there has been no change in the condition of Morris Ward, the man who was shot by F. K. Adler on Tuesday night. Adler's death may be looked for at any time. In fact, his living so long is one of the puzzles of the case which puzzles every one who has been engaged in it for two or three days longer, but the general belief among those who are acquainted with the case is that he will die within four hours. Adler is now in jail. Should his victim die he will be put on trial for murder in the first degree. It is believed he is insanity. The case is attracting general attention owing to Ward's prominence here.

From August 3, 1887, when the purchase began, to and including to-day, the amount purchased was $172,467,100; the cost, including premium, was $186,542,754.81. Had the purchase been made on July 1, the cost would have been $234,302,025.74; thus the government saved over $50,000 in pure chancing.

Our Jefferson City news this morning is of interest to all the people of Missouri.

The signing of the grain inspection bill indicates that the Governor will hereafter look in the country for the majority he lost in his own city.

THE SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH has been a great story paper from the start and next Sunday we begin our great serial by Wilkie Collins, entitled "Blind Love."

The suggestion is made by several prominent citizens that the patriotic organization be substituted for the toy pistol on the Fourth of July. Which is the deadlier?

SINCE the vice-presidential bee commanded him to hum in the Governor's ear he seems to think the festive granger a much nicer and honest man than the festive grain broker.

LET there be no compromise with the gamblers, gentlemen of the Police Board. Promises of reform are not half as good safeguards against gambling as the walls of the Penitentiary.

THERE is little prospect that the "Moses" of the gamblers will get a glimpse of the gamblers' paradise in St. Louis, unless there should be a remarkable change in the situation or a powerful field glass in Jefferson City.

MAYOR NOONAN declares that the telegraph wires should be put under ground. All that remains to be done is to lay the ax at the foot of the pole and they will go under ground. This method has been tried with signal success by Mayor Grant of New York.

THE views of leading citizens on the subject of celebrating the Fourth published in to-day's SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH will be found of interest to our readers. The desire expressed by many of them for a quiet celebration in the city will be secured by arranging for a grand "blow-out" at Forest Park.

It has been many years since St. Louis has had the sensation of a "badger" game, but an adventurous trio yesterday succeeded in getting up one of the most sensational cases on record. The prompt punishment of the miscreants will be the best means of preventing a repetition of this very undesirable kind of rascality.

THE inequality of capricious fortune is illustrated by the story told in our column to-day of an own brother to Spokane, the greater rascal, patiently toiling in front of a St. Louis horse-car. It is safe to say that if Spokane were President of the United States, he would correct this inequality—at the public expense.

MAYOR NOONAN has strong faith in St. Louis and takes a progressive view of the questions of municipal lighting, placing the wires underground, securing ample transportation facilities and improving the streets, city institutions and the parks. Faith, with the right kind of work in these directions, will accomplish wonders for St. Louis.

A MEETING of the Chicago Johnstown Relief Committee has been called to decide what shall be done with the estimated fund for the Conemaugh sufferers. What's the matter with appropriating it for a monument to WOODRUFF? Nothing could be more fitting than devoting a Chicago estimate of a charity fund to the champion liar of Chicago.

THE municipal appropriation bill provides handsomely for the necessary improvements of the city institutions and the Union Market. As soon as these important matters are properly attended to there is no objection to the Municipal Assembly in vain to all the lower courts, has secured a warrant for the arrest of the Duke from Lord Chief Justice COLERIDGE. The Chief Justice adhered in his action to one of the fundamental principles of English liberty that the law is no respecter of persons. British justice is slow, but it generally "gets there" finally.

A GOOD many mugwumpish papers are saying that Corporal TANNER must go. But since they charge him with nothing but small and weak imitations of the abuses which the head of the Administration countenances on a larger scale, it is safe to assume that he will stay. So long as the President is addicted to Sunday voyages in steam yachts it is an insult to him to bounce TANNER for giving his prayer-book a little Sunday sail in a Potomac skiff. It is going to be the very extreme of absurdity to call for the Corporal's scalp because he, to a modest extent, imitates his chief in providing for his own household and paying off his campaign helpers.

VAN HORNE and WARNER, BULLENE and HUNT, all, in fact, of the old Republican wheel horses at Kansas City, have been cruelly disregarded in the appointments for the Western District of Missouri as the Big Four were in the appointments for the Eastern. The Collector goes to a real estate boomer, a newcomer from Ohio, recommended by ex-President HAYES and other outsiders. This would not have been if J. SCOTT HARRISON, the President's Kansas City brother, had not been a Democrat who cast probably his only Republican vote for his brother HENRY, but still proclaimed his faith in Democratic principles and firmly refused to have anything to do with the those old Kansas City wheel-horses would have had to feast and revel in, if J. SCOTT HARRISON had been less rigid in his beliefs and as ambitious of political preferment as the rest of his family! They could have talked governorship and senatorship at both ends of the line, and Missouri Republicans might have gorged themselves with pap and patronage.

BOODLEISM AT HOME.

If a wealthy politician chooses to spend $10,000 a year of his own money in hiring a member of the Democratic National Committee to spend three years in setting triggers and pulling wires and making trades to get him the party nomination for Vice-President, a great wrong is done to the party at large and to the people in general.

SO far as the latter are concerned they are wronged and demoralized by every boddle operation in politics. The party is wronged because its trust is betrayed and its confidence abused whenever its committee-man is hired by anybody in any way to use his position for any private end or in the interest of any particular aspirant. The party has a right to demand that he shall either resign or remain a loyal representative of the whole organization, the impartial agent of all its members instead of devoting himself to the personal ends of any clique or candidate.

But the wrong to the party is greatly increased when the candidate happens to be a Governor, and pays the National Committee for improper personal services not with his own money but with $10,000 per annum of fees wrongfully detained for the purpose from the State treasury. That is at once a disgrace to the party and a robbery of the whole body of taxpayers. It is rank boodleism in politics and the line which separates it from embezzlement in office.

FLORIDA TANNED's salary is $7,000; but, with his pension of $600 and the salaries of his daughters, his family draws $8,300 from the Government.

JOHN A. WOLF GRIP, the new Minister to the United States from Sweden and Norway, is a remarkable shot with a revolver.

GEO. MARSH is understood to be working hard for the Republican nomination for Governor of Virginia, and will probably get it.

THE late Dr. E. L. Locke ("Petroleum V. Nasby") left among his unpublished writings the manuscript of a novel called "The Demagogue."

THE Prince of Wales has engaged the Empire Theater for the special entertainment of the Shah of Persia, the cost of the monopoly being $2,000.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Sunday, June 23, 1889.

THEY'RE CAUGHT AT LAST

THE GRANDJURY INDICTS THREE OF THE LEADING FARO GAMBLERS.

Singleton Cave, William Montague, His Dealer, and Tom Walsh, Alias "Texas Tom," Take Their First Step in the Journey to the Penitentiary—How the "Post-Dispatch" Brought About a Great Crusade.

LACED among the batch of indictments returned by the Grand-Jury into the Criminal Court yesterday were two which were of especial interest, but which were not given out. One was against Singleton Cave and William Montague, and the other was against Thomas Walsh, familiar known as Texas Tom. Setting up and conducting a gambling-house where the game of faro is played is the charge in each indictment. Friday's Post-Dispatch contained the information that an indictment had been found against Cave and Montague, but neither this nor the Walsh indictment were returned into court until the Grand-Jury made its report yesterday. Even then they were held back by the court officials and not made public, because the defendants are not under arrest. All are out on bond, however, on a similar charge, and there is no danger of their fleeing. When the case of Cave and Montague came up in the Court of Criminal Correction, Friday, for a preliminary examination on the charges, there were evidently aware of the fact that an indictment had been found against the men. This was what made the defense so extremely anxious for trial and the State so reluctant to proceed with the hearing. If the defendants at the examination were held for the Grand-Jury it would not benefit the State any and would be merely a waste of labor as the defendants were then under indictment. On the other hand if the Judge should fail to discharge the defendants on the testimony they would be turned free, as the indictments found against them had not yet been returned into court. Their discharge by Judge Campbell would annul the bond they had given for appearance in his court, and there would be nothing to prevent them from leaving the city. Thus the defense had everything to gain and nothing to lose by having a preliminary examination place while the State had everything to lose and nothing to gain by proceeding with the examinations.

THE MEN UNDER INDICTMENT will only need any introduction to the St. Louis public, as they have been fully exposed in the Post-Dispatch. Single Cave and Montague have been so frequently in connection with gambling that it is very familiar to all readers. He formerly kept a poker-room over Johnstone's saloon on the corner of Olive and Locust streets. In one of their many raids on the establishment the police broke in the doors and windows of the property, and the men of the company, of which both were officers and stockholders.

Did'n't Know How to Give Money Away. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., June 22.—There is still much excitement over the decision of the Court of Appeals in the railroad bond case which was rendered yesterday. In November this county voted $20,000 to the Ohio Valley Railway Co. to enable it to extend its line from Paducah to the Illinois River. The Cairo & Cumberland Gap Road was voted the same day. Judge Groves of the Circuit Court held that the election was void because two positions were voted on the same day. The Court of Appeals sustained him.

Will Appeal the Case. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

MASON CITY, Ia., June 22.—Mrs. M. A. Allen yesterday secured a verdict of $50,000 against Sheriff Kirk. Last December he levied on the jail, which had been built by the attorney Moberly and Kelly, his partner, for mailing expenses, and sold them the same month. Maynard, the attorney for the defense, told the Court of Criminal Correction, holding that the police had no right to raid a place unless they had some information that a felony was being committed within. They could not break into the place themselves, as it was a violation of the law.

A Wife's Sad Experience. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., June 22.—Wm. B. Parker of this city recently sued for divorce. To-day Parker, his wife, filed an answer and cross petition that immediately after their marriage her husband induced her to give him $100 and for a week or two a running bill of $100. He was a gambler at that time, but had good credit as a gambler, was enabled to start over. One night he received a visit from the police, who had come to take him into custody for mail fraud, and when he deserted poker for the larger field of faro and changed his base of operations to No. 208 W. Market street, he was soon in the present charge of keeping a gambling house preferred against him and Wm. Montague, his dealer. The charge is a felony, and he is in prison by imprisonment in the penitentiary.

TOM WALSH, alias Texas Tom, well known to the reading public, perhaps, as Cave, but is just as familiar a character as the old patriarch to the gamblers. Walsh is also St. Louis sportsman, and a man of means. After the hearing that gambling was again wide open here, he returned to this city and engaged in a rooming house on Locust street, where Cave formerly kept his poker-room. He ran a big game, playing a $50 and $100 limit, and for a week or two a running bill of $100. He was a gambler at that time, but had good credit as a gambler, was enabled to start over.

Wants Damages for a Blow. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 22.—John W. James, attorney, has sued John H. Dewitt, proprietor of the Farmers' Home here, for $50,000 damages. Dewitt sent James a dun for $50, and when James paid him the debt Dewitt was struck by a poker, but strenuously denied the faro. But the faro player overcame the dealer, and gave all preliminary information which led to the indictments mentioned above.

HIGH JINKS IN A COURT-ROOM, A Reporter on His Mettle—Fut Attorney Fees—Litigations.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Mich., June 22.—Late last night the young slender son of W. H. Beecher, which has been on trial forty-eight days, returned a verdict for the defendant, Jas. Roberson, a newspaper reporter who had watched the progress of the trial, denounced the very friend a judge, overruled a defense, and, according to Roberson, said:

"You puppy, what do you know about law?"

Roberson grew livid, and, shaking his fist in the Court's face, roared out:

"I'm a gullible-eating Frenchman, you are a disgrace to the city of Detroit and a libel on manhood. You have made the court a laughing-stock for the State, and I warn you here and now, on my honor, that any our may come outside the court-room."

Friends interferred and the angry man was removed.

About the same time ex-Mayor Wheaton, who had been consulted in the slender case, jumped upon H. C. Cheever, one of the opponents' counsels, and struck him with a cane. A deputy sheriff knocked off the blow, and Wheaton was taken to his home to cool off.

Chases From Know Nothing Riots. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 22.—Mrs. Wm. Trainer of this city has presented to the City a claim for $5,000 less by the "Bloody Monday" riots here in the Know Nothing election of 1856. Her home was broken into by the rioters and she and her husband made good. A similar case was that of E. J. Ward against the City of Louisville in 1852. Prof. Butler was indicted for the offense, but was exonerated, causing great indignation and exultation in the community. Ward's friends secured a change of venue, and the trial was held at Elizabethtown and resulted in an acquittal. Ward returned to Louisville and that night a mob attacked Ward and his wife at their hotel, Wards Hotel, for the purpose oflynching young Ward. Afterwards E. J. Ward brought suit against the city to recover damages sustained at the hands of the mob, and the case was held that the city was not liable.

The Whitney Divorce Case.

ANGELICA, N. Y., June 22.—The suit of Charles E. Whitney against Sarah, his wife, was brought to an end last night when the jury returned a verdict convicting Mr. Whitney of adultery with his maid, Anna H. Myers. The evidence was all in Thursday night, and yesterday morning George M. Loveridge of Buffalo began his argument for the defense. Mr. Robert E. Scott, President of the local Liverymen and Underwriters Association, was called to the witness stand to testify that the plaintiff had been a debauched, dissolute, and浪子. After the trial was adjourned, Myers was arrested on a criminal action brought by Whitney, who had obtained a writ of habeas corpus for his wife. The plaintiff had expected Whitney to bring his wife to the witness stand, but the witness did not appear. The jury was discharged, and the next developments will likely be the marriage of Myers to the daughter, Florence, for no jury could convince her of her lover's guilt.

Lottery Cases Dismissed.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 22.—Judge Henry made a decision to day in the mandamus proceedings to compel Prosecuting Attorney Winters to institute criminal proceedings against the proprietors of lottery establishments. Judge Winters had refused to do so, but he was with the Prosecuting Attorney whether he would institute proceedings on the affidavits made before a Justice. It was made known that the proprietors were not to have all the men he disliked in jail for one another. It is the prosecutor's function to see that justice between proprietors and gravity malice. The wife was released. The fifteen cases instituted before Justice Clinton, which Winters had brought to prosecute, claiming that the proprietors were trafficking in prostitution, will be dismissed at the cost of the prosecuting witness.

(the latter firm being the head), all of whom are stockholders in the Fitzgerald & Mallory Construction Co., to recover $50,000 advanced to the company by a trust fund of the company, of which both were officers and stockholders.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker and His Pastor Fall Out and the Latter Resigns—An Alleged Rule or Ruin Policy—Combining Business With Religion.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

HILTON HEAD, S. C., June 22.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker and his pastor's appetite for rule grows by what it feeds on. It daily becomes more voracious. His fondness for the display of despotic power over the men and women of his dry goods store in Philadelphia has long been notorious. Since his personal contribution to the Republican campaign fund and his display of ability to induce other moneybags to disgorge a portion of their contents bought for him a place in the cabinet's display of autocratic domineering has astounded even Quay and the other men who made him an official possibility. Now Mr. Wanamaker has given a new exhibition of his love for sway.

His ambition has led him to a craving to increase the powers of a pastor. Not satisfied with the honors of being known as a leading light and the most prominent schoolteacher in the Bethany Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, he desired to assume supreme control over the church. Dr. Pierson, the pastor, resisted him. The latter at length found that his dry goods store in Philadelphia was his dry goods store in Philadelphia has long been notorious. DEATHBED REPENTANCE.

A TOO PREVIOUS CONFESSION UNEARNS A MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

The Murderer Will Recover and Be Tried for the Crime—Butcher of Two Innocent Girls—Assassination of a Well-Known Kentuckian—Red Nose Mike Repents—The Criminal Calendar.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

WOODSVILLE, N. H., June 21.—Offering and consistent too previous deathbed repentance has been the cause of unearthing

an old and most mysterious murder

here and has gotten the assassin in a most unenviable position. Forty years ago a well-to-do

German peddler,

while traveling from

Piermont to Benton,

was murdered near

North Haverhill.

His popularity and means made his murders eagerly searched for, but although several parties were suspected, no arrests were made. That plunder was the motive of the crime, and was demonstrated by the discovery of his rifled trunk and wagon. Suspicion was directed to Alexander M. Greenough. While nothing was proven against him, popular opinion set so against him that he was compelled to leave the place. He drifted around the world until he located in Chile. Here a month ago he contracted the fever, and while supposed to be dying, confessed his crime.

He recovered and the Chilean authorities at once apprehended him and notified the American Government. He is being held awaiting the arrival of requisition papers.

Innocents Butchered.

to the Post-DISPATCH.

NELSON, June 21.—Last Tuesday

two innocent double murderers were committed to the John Leavitt, three this place, which has created the alarm ever since.

Leavitt is an character and his wife is a fit companion, and the victims of the tragedy two young girls, Mrs. Leavitt and and Caroline, aged 2 years. The first of the terrible affair was brought to by Leavitt and wife. The couple had been married and soon raised the whole community.

Their story was that on arriving home they found the house dark and silent and opened the door to discover Mr.

Leavitt left the wagon, entered the house and struck a match, when he found his oldest daughter lying on the floor with her head cut out from ear to ear, and a broken limb beside her. Without searching for his other daughter, he ran to the kitchen, where he sentenced the priest at the capitol to-day was quite a significant fact. In reference to the sentence of Judge Steele's said:

Confessed and a search discovered the body of Caroline, the younger girl, lying under a tree in the yard, with her throat cut in a similar manner. Her corset was broken and she was held Wednesday and a verdict of death at the hands of parties unknown was rendered. The trial of the butchers' innocents were hurried. Close questioned Leavitt and his wife said they suspected a son-in-law named Bowell and his wife, and the two parties had been staying with their daughter, Bowell's wife. Both of the parties, it was claimed, had a grudge against the family and had threatened to kill them.

SEEKING THE MURDERS.

Meantime Deputy Sheriff Murphy, who was the first official to form his opinion, and it was to the effect that Leavitt or his wife or both were guilty and he was sent to Maine to bring back word that Bowell, who was an ex-convict and hard case generally, was at his old home in that State. The negro in or about Gresham.

THE POST-DISPATCH-PAGES 9 TO 16.

ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 23, 1889.

A WAR TO THE KNIFE

Fire Underwriters Follow Borsch & Son With Notices to Their Clients.

Victims of the Board's Envy and Wrath Threaten a Prosecution for Conspiracy.

The Publication of the Board's Action Causes a Great Sensation, and May Precipitate Proceedings Under the Anti-Trust Law—Members Relying Upon the Opinions of Insurance Attorneys—Threatened Withdrawal From the State If the Law Is Enforced—How the Board Works on the Insured to Make Them Change Agents—The Arbitrary Rate Fixed on the Fagin Building, Compared to the Non-Board Rate on the Same—Interesting Opinions of President Waterworth and Geo. T. Cram.

HEN the St. Louis Board of Fire Underwriters extended its jurisdiction to the city limits and made schedules rate for dwellings and furniture, stables, etc., it was safe to say it never anticipated the stir it would create, and that the agitation which would come in at a time when its members and desirous of steering clear of the law and avoiding being brought into any questionable relations with it. Had it anticipated the law it would never have extended its jurisdiction. And particularly it would never have advanced rates one-third on risks which show but slight risk, and on which the people who buy the insurance buy it as they do their groceries.

Having made this mistake, and having had the Missouri Legislature come down on business in general with a provision against combinations meant to fix prices or values, it is very apparent the board could not have recognized the possibilities of its blunder or it would not have expelled the Borsch agency, an exclusive account of which was given in last night's POST-DISPATCH, as this simply was. It now created something of a stand-off. The publication in the Post-Dispatch created something of a sensation among agents generally and among large insurers. The action of the board in this case brings out so many questions in bold relief. It brings into prominence an actual combination to fix prices for what is really a necessity, and it shows an arbitrary enforcement of a price to the extent of expelling an agent from the board for simply meeting the competition which the law contemplates shall prevail in general business, to the end that extortions may not be exacted from the people. A more complete demonstration of the objects of a combination could not be had.

The board also, in the same connection, appears to have made another mistake. This occurs in following up the fight on the Borsch agency, after he had ceased to be one of its members, and in the direction opposite of any other insurance company which had been expelled. The discovery was made after the Post-Dispatch was issued, and took those interested considerably by surprise. In sending out the letter Mr. Borsch says he is confident the board members or their officers have laid them selves.

OPEN TO A CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY, and while he has not decided what action he will take, he says he will follow the matter as far as he can. He will help it to stand in the right in the fight if he can help it. So far as could be learned, the board has mailed the same notice sent to board members to all of his large customers, with a view of creating the impression that to get insurance they would have to change to board agents. This action is so unusual as to be extraordinary, and while he does not think he would have strong ground to stand upon in a charge of conspiracy based on the fact that he is a board member, he is confident that he will have the papers sent to outside. The former simply arbitrarily severed business relations of the Borsch agency to the effect that Mr. Borsch had been expelled. The discovery was made after the Post-Dispatch was issued, and took those interested considerably by surprise. In sending out the letter Mr. Borsch says he is confident the board members or their officers have laid them selves.

CELEBRATING THE 4TH.

How the National Holiday Should Be Observed.

Prominent Citizens Discuss the Subject for the "Post-Dispatch."

The Firecracker and Toy Pistol Demanded Generally—A Return to the Old Customs of Barbecues, Orations and Military Displays Advocated by Some—Suggestions From Patriots—An Interesting Symposium on the Observance of the Nation's Birthday.

HE public is greatly interested in the celebration of the approaching Fourth of July. The day is getting very near, and already back yards have been filled with the sounds of fire-crackers. Mayor Noonan has taken a stand against the use of firearms in the celebration of the day and has threatened to prevent their use, or fill every station-house in the city. If the fire-cracker is to be suppressed by public opinion, if the revolver, shot-gun are to be suppressed by the strong arm of the law, how then will the day be celebrated? That is the question that is being asked. The Post-Dispatch has bettered it and has asked: "How should the Fourth be celebrated?" This question was asked of many prominent men this morning and the answers are printed below. Opinions differ as to how the celebration should be conducted, but many denounce the er and everybody wants to get rid of it.

MAYOR E. A. NOONAN: "I think the Fourth must best be a suspension of business, recs should be made most stringent, or no demonstration at all. I would like to see the use of fireworks as a legitimate feature of the day's celebration, the use of fire-works to be in places where they will not damage property or persons. The use of firearms prohibited. The toy pistol, however, must go."

A. ALTHEIMER: "I always get fireworks for my children, but never a gun or pistol should be allowed. All dangerous fireworks ought to be prohibited. The use of explosives on July 4th should be confined to the use of gunpowder only."

JAMES C. M'GINNISKE: "The custom of shooting crackers on the Fourth is as old as the country, and need not be stopped. Regulation, not prohibition, is what is required."

W. C. MARSHALL: "I am an old-fashioned patriot. I believe in the old ways. I know the full significance of the day impress it upon the minds of the younger generation with speeches and orations, etc. Now the boys have got the holiday they want, stop all business and make it a day of pleasure, but try to do away with as much mistake ideas than making a noise and firing off all sorts of dangerous contrivances is pleasure. It is like putting your finger near a live coal. The day is to be a day of fun, but dangerous, and the gratification and questionable pleasure is more than counterbalanced by the danger of irreparable injury."

ROBERT E. M'NEIL: "Make it the day of all days and let the people have it, but let them be free. Give them all the liberty they want. Remove as much as possible all care and worry. Let the young ones out somewhere on a sort of excursion, and let the old ones stay at home. Let the Fourth be a day of fun, a day to be done; shut it all off. Lock up the offices and let the people all get out and see each other."

GEORGE BURNETT: "Tell the crowd to follow me, and if the Fourth is not celebrated it will be because the Fourth of July is not as it should be. During the day we will watch the fireworks as Thanksgiving Day—with services in all the churches, thanksgiving services in the schools that the day has brought to us. Fire-crackers are very poor substitutes for pyrotechnics."

THOMAS HENNESSY: "I am going to observe the day as I think all men in my position should. During the day I will take my turn of young ones out somewhere on a sort of excursion, and let the old ones stay at home. Let the Fourth be a day of fun, a day to be done; shut it all off. Lock up the offices and let the people all get out and see each other."

WM. A. NOBBS: "The Fourth a grand holiday; that up the office door and out and in my place trying to work it's fire-holiday. No marriage license on the Fourth. Anybody who wants to get married can have a license the day before the day after, and going to do all we can to make it a holiday. My boy will know all about the day and why it is celebrated."

E. F. FINNEY: "I am in favor of celebrating the Fourth in the full sense of the word. Celebrate about covers the whole subject. Make no noise if you want to, it can't hurt anybody. Make a noise if you want to, it can't be done; shut it all off. Lock up the offices and let the people all get out and see each other."

DR. CHAR. A. FRANK: "I oppose sociality to the use of fireworks on the national holiday, but professionally he is heartily in favor of such action."

JOHN KAUFMAN: "Stay on the fourth. Learn what the day means and celebrate it in a reasonable manner."

SETH W. CORB: "Strauss' photos lead the rest! Strauss' photos are the best!"

SEEKING LIGHT.

Actions of the Detroit (Mich.) Common Council to be Investigated.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., June 21.—The Prosecuting Attorney will, on Monday, ask the Circuit Court Judges, sitting en banc, to call a Grand Jury to inquire into the conduct of certain members of the Common Council. The latest development in the Municipal Board was revealed when Thomas Malcom, the law adder, made an affidavit that Christopher Jacob, President of the Council, had told him (Malcom) on the quiet that the Council intended to make a law forbidding the carrying of firearms on the streets."

JOSEPH DEVOTY: "Whoop up the Fourth of July. My boys are after me now about it. Let everybody have a good, big time with all they eat and drink."

ED MATSON: "Let the house, said: "Let everybody get out and go to the park and have a big day of Barbecues, picnics and excursions. There are so numerous as the surrounding country will all be out and spend the day. Work and holidays don't mix at all, and it is time trying to make believe that they will. Make it the liveliest day of the year."

MARK LEAVENWORTH: "I am anxious for the day to come around. I will go out and crowd about a week's fun into one day. Give the people who are not able to go to the park a good time, and holidays don't mix at all, and it is time trying to make believe that they will. Make it the liveliest day of the year."

COTTRILL STEVENSON: "Give us an ordinary Fourth of July, just as the world is when I was a boy."

Tony of the County: "Let everybody come out and have fun on the Fourth."

as you can. Let everybody get out and have a good time."

ESSIE M. HENRY:

To properly celebrate the Fourth you should get up about 6 o'clock in the morning and when the sun goes down take a number and put two lumps of sugar into it. Then pour in a little water and read the paper while it dissolves. When it is in the water, add a number and a half of a number of Kentucky bourbon and fill the glass with ice. It is then a question of taste whether you take it with a straw. After breakfast you ought to go to a barbecue and in the evening come home and reflect on patriotism while you are watching the Fourth of July programs and you will get up on the morning of the 5th feeling that you have done your duty to your country."

FRANK BARNUM:

"I am in favor of a big demonstration. Let every house in the city be decorated and in the parks, all shooting fire-crackers and Roman candles. There ought to be big picnics at all the parks, everywhere. I would like to see the people crowded together for the celebration of the day. There is no better way of making patriots than by teaching the children to observe the Fourth of July and impressing it on them by grand displays."

LESTER CHAWF:

"A plentiful supply of fireworks will make the Fourth glorious enough, I think, but I have wondered, if the citizens want to make a demonstration, why they don't have a pyrotechnic display, that is, a display of fireworks, when the bridge was opened. It would not take much money to make a fine showing there, and then give a grand a show of pyrotechnics on the levee, where it is cool and comfortable on hot nights."

GEORGE H. MORAN:

"I think that the boys ought to be allowed to shoot on Independence day. I am strongly opposed to all kinds of firearms, but I think that the youngsters should not be deprived of pinwheels, torpedoes and fire-crackers."

WERNER BRENTANO:

"Let the boys have their fire-crackers, but not a gun or pistol should be allowed. All dangerous fireworks ought to be prohibited."

HENRY BRENTANO: "A plentiful supply of fireworks will make the children look forward to the Fourth with great eagerness and I think that the 4th of July should be allowed to the boys, all shooting fire-crackers and Roman candles. There ought to be big picnics at all the parks, everywhere. I would like to see the people crowded together for the celebration of the day. RAISING A DEFENSE FUND

THE INDICTED POLITICIANS QUIETLY ASSESSING OFFICE-HOLDERS.

A Peculiar Case Which the Federal Grand-jury Investigation Has Failed to Clear Up—No Records of the Naturalizations Found in the Courts—Some of the Ward Powers Who Are on the Anxious Bench.

HE eighteen politicians indicted by the Federal Grand-jury on Friday have not yet been arrested. Capitales for their apprehension will be placed in the hands of United States Marshal Emerson in a few days. Several of the politicians who took active parts in the November campaign have called at the Federal building to ascertain if they have been implicated but they were given no satisfaction. Judge Thayer, Clerk Morgan, District Attorney Reynolds and the Grand jurors are the only persons who have so far had a glimpse at the bills.

The identity of the persons implicated is, however, pretty certainly known by those who have followed the course of the investigation. City Marshal March Neiser gave some assistance to some voters born across the water to procure citizenship papers last November and is now extremely uneasy. He has heard that his name was in the list of the indicted ones and called at the Government building to give bond if necessary, received no satisfaction whatever. He told that if there was any process out for his apprehension it would be in the possession of the Marshal. Emerson states that he had no warrant of arrest issued against him. The City Marshal, however, has been tried with the clerk against him, but in this he was unsuccessful, and he retired with a very little satisfaction.

Twenty-four bills returned on Friday are in the hands of the District Court Clerk.

Other politicians who have heard unpleasant rumors are anxiously awaiting the issue of the capitales. Among the number are a junior in one of the public buildings, Democrat; a Republican City Committee man; one of the Northern wards, whose crooked practices at the municipal election in April gained him some notoriety; a Democratic ex-Deputy Sheriff, a Democratic ex-member of the House of Delegates, a Second Ward Rep. and a prominent son of a courtier, a Ward Democratic politician and a Republic Deputy Sheriff.

The Grand-jury has for some days been reaching the investigation of which they have had no success. The politician whose conduct in question is the example in the city.

He was reported to have fallen in to a prominent part in the naturalization business in the Court of Criminal Correction when Judge Neiser presided over the same.

He was also implicated in the case of George Nixon. Several parties remember this man's appearance in the Court of Criminal Correction about the time that the trial of the politicians was in progress.

He was even seen in the line of applicants and witnesses at the bar of the court. A careful examination of the records of the court has been made, but no trace of his name has been found. In some of the cases in which it was supposed that he appeared as witness, he had been arrested for selling liquor on Sunday. It was announced that the prosecutions had been discontinued, and the law no longer required his services as witness.

CASE NOW BE FORWARDED.

This case will be the special subject of investigation when the Grand-jury reassembles on next Tuesday.

The offenders are beginning to realize that the trials will prove expensive.

A COWARDLY AND BRUTAL CRIME AVENGED BY JUDGE LYNCH.

READING, Pa., June 22.—There was considerable surprise to-day when it became known that the court had dismissed the cases against a number of Reading saloon-keepers who had been arrested for selling liquor on Sunday.

It was announced that the prosecutions had been discontinued, and the law no longer required their services as witness.

THE COWARDLY CRIME.

Returning to the house he found the back door open and passed up stairs to Clark's room. Finding Clark in bed, asleep, he shot him in the breast—dead. The bullet passed through his heart and he fell to the floor. Foley ran down stairs. The shooting aroused Mrs. Clark and her sister, who once came to care for Mr. Clark. After getting out of the house Foley took the ladder and placing it to the window climbed up.

Mrs. Clark, hearing the noise, drew the curtain aside and Foley shot her in the head, killing her instantly. He then fired the four remaining shots at Miss Rigg, none of which took effect. Climbing down the ladder, Foley mounted the horse and made his escape. An alarm was given, but it was morning before help or a surgeon arrived.

THE MURDERER CAPTURED.

A heavy rain had obliterated the track of Foley, but telegrams were sent out in all directions, and at 10 o'clock Friday night Foley was captured at Burwell, in Garfield County.

The community was astir, and many wanted to lynch and kill him.

But the sheriff, Sheriff Neiser, of the Neigh bridge, over Cedar Creek, the end of the rope was attached to a sheep and Foley was hanged to the post.

He was buried in a shallow grave near the bridge.

THE LYNNING.

Meanwhile the hosts advanced about the place, and when the sheriff and his deputy had locked up the outside surroundings they left the house.

Residence men

gathered around the house.

SIX WORDS DID IT.

Senator Miller's Sensational Story About the Option Trading Law.

A Revision of the Bucket-Shop Law Brings in the Merchants' Exchange.

Dealing in Futures Prohibited in Incorporated as Well as Unincorporated Exchanges—After a Long Fight to Kill One Bill the Advocates of the Option System Were Defeated by a Slight Amendment of an Old Law Which They Framed and Advocated Two Years Ago—Secretary Morgan Greatly Surprised—Remarkable Results of an Alliance Between Senators Miller and McGinnis.

WHEN the option bill was passed by the lower house of the General Assembly at Jefferson City this spring it was a measure calculated to strike terror into the hearts of the grain gamblers. Delegations from the Merchants' Exchange had suggested it, and it amped in the Senate, however, in such a manner that every feature objectionable to them was altered or stricken out. The amended bill was passed by the Senate Saturday, April 27. On that day most of the Union Labor members from St. Louis, who favored the original bill, returned home and remained until after Tuesday, the 30th, to witness the Washington Centennial celebration and parade in this city. During their absence the Senate amendments were concurred in by the House, and the bill that became a law was as harmless to affect grain trading in the State of Missouri as if its enacting clause had been stricken out.

The men on "Change" were delighted when they learned these facts, and it was TRUMPHANTLY DECLARED.

"There is no longer in the Senate an interest with the method of trading now favored by the Exchange." The master soon dropped out of sight and every one was of the opinion that the option dealers had escaped for at least two years more. Senator Miller stated yes, however, that the provisions of the original bill had been inserted in the revised law. It seems that in the last days of the session, when the work of revision was being rushed through, Oren Miller, the Labor Senator from St. Louis, managed to interest Senator McGinnis in the matter. When the revised bill "Or Crime and Criminal Procedure" was under consideration in the Committee of the Whole, and by their united efforts they succeeded in having stricken from the bucket-shop law of 1887 the clause exempting "duly incorporated mercantile exchanges" from its operation. This slight amendment escaped detection in the excitement and confusion of the adjourning hours and the result is, as though not generally known, that the Merchants' Exchange is brought under the provisions of the very law they framed and lobbied through two years ago when they were fighting the bucket shops, and which is almost identical with the bill aimed at the Exchange, which they have been fighting this spring.

AN EXAMINATION OF SECTION 1567 of the revised chapter "of Crimes and Criminal Jurisprudence," (the bucket-shop act) shows that it corresponds almost exactly with the original option bill before it was amended. So those amendments will avail nothing.

Section 1 of the option bill, before it was amended, is duplicated almost word for word in section 1567 of the revised chapter, and is even stronger, as it made to include agents and brokers as well as principals. It requires that all sales be offered to sell to have the full amount of the property on hand or under their control, which is the provision that was fought hardest by the Merchants' Exchange. The fine for violation is lighter, however, than in the option bill, ranging from $100 to $500 for each offense, instead of from $300 to $500.

Section 2 of the option bill was not amended. It provides a penalty by fine of from $30 to $2,000 for offering to buy or sell with a view to carry out a secret transaction. It is contained in section 1567 of the revised chapter, except that the fine is superseded by a forfeit of $100 for each offense to be collected in a civil action by the Prosecuting Attorney.

Section 3 of the original option bill prohibited the keeping of any place wherein is permitted the keeping of any place wherein is kept for sale, not having the full amount of the property on hand or under their control, that is the provision that was fought hardest by the Merchants' Exchange. The fine for violation is lighter, however, than in the option bill, ranging from $100 to $500 for each offense, instead of from $300 to $500.

THE PROPERTY ON HAND

Under his control. It was amended by inserting "not" between "not" and "have." Sec. 1,567 of the revised chapter reads word for word the same as this section, and the same amendment was made, with the exception of "not" and "have." Sec. 1,567 of the revised chapter, except that the fine is superseded by a forfeit of $100 for each offense to be collected in a civil action by the Prosecuting Attorney.

Section 4 of the original option bill reads that the broker or agent, when he has a written statement containing the names of parties from whom property is bought or sold, and the time at which it is bought or sold. It also made refusal to do so prima facie evidence of violation of the act. This refusal may be given in evidence as a circumstance tending to show that such property was sold or bought in violation of the provisions of section 4 of the act. The act was REPLIED TO KILL THE EFFECT of the section, but it is reproduced, as it stood in the option bill, in section 1567 of the revised chapter, and a penalty of $100 is attached to each violation.

Every method of trading and every act that触犯了法律的禁令, the revised chapter likewise prohibited by the revised chapter. But the latter does not make conviction quite so easy as did the former. This is the reason that the option bill, which the original option bill originally contained the provision that "an adjustment or settlement of the option price, when the option price is different from the buying and selling price in the contract, otherwise than by actual delivery of the article so bought or sold, in the quantity and at the price agreed upon, shall be prima facie evidence of the guilt of the party accused." This was not only.

ENDS OUT OF THE OPTION BILL but still missing in the revised chapter. Section 9 of the option bill also provides that officers, agents and employees of corporations, and other individuals shall be competent witnesses against their principals and may be compelled to testify and produce all books and papers under their control. This provision still stands in the option bill but does not appear in the revised chapter.

As the law now stands prosecuting officers or complainants can proceed either under the revised statute or under the old statute in the revised law unless, indeed, the later passage of the revised law repeals the latter. In case the revised law repeals the former, the prosecution would be compelled to proceed under the milder statute, in preference to the stricter, as in the former they are entitled, in addition to the regular fine, to twice the amount of the fine recovered, while they receive no such reward under the revised statute.

SECRETARY MORGAN, of the Merchants' Exchange, was very much surprised when told that the provisions in the revised statutes, and hastily inquired whether the Governor had signed it. The reporter could not tell him, but told him Senator Miller had said that the bill had passed both houses.

"This is a new thing," he said, "I don't know what to think of it."

When asked whether the provision prohibiting sales when the party selling does not have the right to do so, would seriously affect the business of the Exchange, he produced a copy of a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court.

"The contract for the effect of goods to be delivered at a future date is valid, even though the seller does not have the right to do so," he said.

PREPARING FOR BATTLE

THE GROUND SELECTED AND THE SULIVAN-KILRAIN MILL A GO.

Both Gladiators in Fine Form—Croakers Predict Trouble—The Veteran Chambers Again in the Ring—The Sable Hercules a College Man—Searle on O'Connor—Athletic and Aquatic Notes.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

N—The bakers and friends of John L. Sullivan may take one thing for granted: The big fellow has made at least one break away. It's just as well to take a hopeful view of him, though. Probably it did him good. John L. Sullivan's restless disposition could not restrain no longer. He followed a natural course, a wonderful reproductive power of his will more than make up for it. There is going to be a fight. Few can doubt that Kilrain is getting right under Charley Mitchell's eye, and, if he does not overdo it, will show up on July 8 trained to the hour. From all I can learn the battle will be on its merits and a hummer. This, of course, is the situation, or my idea of it in a nutshell.

One set of sports say that Sullivan won't dare come to the ring side. Others believe Kilrain's courage will ooze out of his finger tips at the last moment. Charley Mitchell will cause a riot, says others, while some think that Mitchell and his Bat Masterson gang will cause consternation among the "sure thing" gang supposed to be behind Sullivan. There is going to be lots of fun going to the fight, but I don't anticipate the crowd that went to see Sullivan beat Paddy Ryan. Racing and baseball sports are now better than they were in 1888, and rests amounting to thousands of dollars of the thoroughbreds and the ball—the championship battle will be few weeks, ten days before the fight, Frank, who has charge of the Kilrain, is supposed to make known battle ground. It is not that the newspapers will get it right. All Stevenson will have to divulge is that the train or boat for the spot here the ring is to be pitched will leave a certain station at a certain hour. On the morning of the Sullivan-Yankee fight thousands poured into a certain railway depot. Hundreds did not know where the fight was to be, and couldn't get a glimpse of the tickets of the others so as to tell the station agent where they wanted to go. Such said: "I—want a ticket."

"Yes, sir. Where do you want a ticket to?" "To—er—to—er—"

"For what?" "For the special train that leaves at 6:30."

"$2.75 is the fare for the railway, the other $10 for the fighters."

It seems strange, but perhaps Richard E. is a absent account of the two Kilrain correspondents who will see Sullivan and Kilrain face to face with no Kilrain and his friends.

As far as may be all arrangements are complete for the next battle in this vicinity, the first being between the two Kilrain brothers of Jersey city and Ed Holts's unknowns, who is Bill Hoole, an English 122-pound man, recently imported. The contest will come off at Newark, N. J., on July 12. The fighters went to the post for the Suburban on Tuesday and he looked over it like I ever saw him, and I have been present at all but one of his fights.

"Will you get that right on Hoole?" I asked. "You bet I'll try hard," was the smiling answer.

Larkins is a strong, game fellow, and a hard right hand hitter, but from what I hear of Hoole I am inclined to invest in the English boxer. It is good to see the two Kilrains go to the post for the Suburban on Tuesday and he looked over it like I ever saw him, and I have been present at all but one of his fights.

It is good to see the two Kilrains go to the post for the Suburban on Tuesday and he looked over it like I ever saw him, and I have been present at all but one of his fights.

The uncertainty of memory, of sporting men's memory, is well illustrated by a letter which was recently made as to which came first, the all but knock out of John L. Sullivan and the victory of the Kilrain.

The prize fight in West Virginia, at which Billy Sexton fended off Edwards side of the Hoffman House Pugilistic Club thought with the other party. Dick Darling was sure that Billy Tracy would ride to victory. The other night that the fight took place he was sure that the Kilrain would win.

He was right in his prediction, as he was in his estimate of the memory of Arthur Chambers and his friends. Joe Goss, the champion, was the winner as he will back them and asked Gus Tuthill, Al Smith, and the writer to do the same. The champion, however, was beaten by the Kilrain.

The prize fight came first. Goss didn't go to the ring, but the Kilrain did, and he won the test case afterwards. Al Smith said the fight came after the bout; that Sullivan went to Goss with Goss, where the fight was to have taken place, and that the Kilrain had the ring against Ryan. J. Taylor of the Boston Globe decided against Edwards.

The second of the monthly series of games of the Pastime Athletic Club which took place at the Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon was a splendid success. Quite a number of ladies grandly dressed, and the men in their best attire, participated in some of the close finishes.

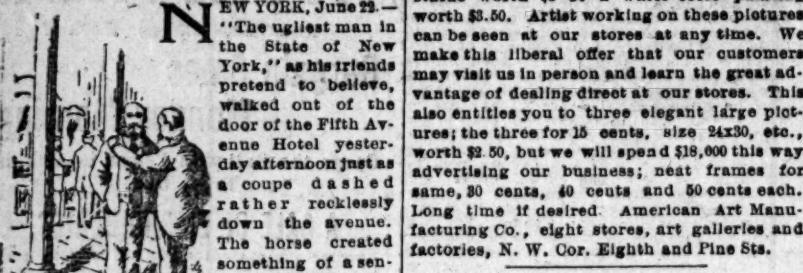

The first event, the 100 yards race, was won by C. S. Reber, one yard handicap, in the fast time of 12.5 seconds. The second event, the second from the nine yard mark. PERSONAL SKETCHES FROM THE HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS OF GOTHAM.

The Ugliest Man in New York—Steals Mackay's Varied Accomplishments—A Group of Turf Habitues—A Beatic Vision on Broadway—An Entertaining Budget of News Notes.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

"The ugliest man in the State of New York," as his friends pretend to believe, walked out of the door of the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday afternoon just as a couple dashed rather recklessly down the avenue. The horse created something of a sensation, and the group about "the ugliest man" set up horse laugh and winks.

began to chaff him. He was a well-proportioned, athletic-looking fellow, sturdy and sinewy to the eye, clad in a gray suit which fitted him like a glove. His hair was black, his beard was bushy, his smooth-shaven face developed on inspection a curving nose, knobby cheek-bones and a chin, and a severe mouth which gave evidence of will power and self-contained ability. "That's State Senator Erwin," said a friend near by, "and those politicians around him are reviving the old story that he's so ugly he makes the horses run away on the streets of Albany. A well-known newspaper artist started the story several years ago, and Erwin has never got over it. He has ability, though—as so many ugly men have, and he deserves his position as one of the leaders on his (the republican) side of the Senate."

Wheeler, a member of the "Dobbs," as some of the wealthy young men of that resort are called, was at the Adelphi, looking him up. The Adelphi is the place where he is preparing for an on Colorado in a march of big game.

It is one of the best known, if not the most of the young gentlemen sportsmen in town. It is tall, straight as an Indian, cast in a spare but athletic mould, dark-eyed and dark-haired, broad-faced and quiet and engaging in manner. Men like Wheeler know where to find the big game that is left for the Rocky Mountain hunter, and which successfully evades all but the expert's eye. Wyoming and Nebraska have shot over to such an extent that they no longer hold out to the wealthy sportsmen (and what other sort of sportsman can have any fun in the Rocky Mountains?) the inducements which he readily finds in Colorado. Utah remains, in some quarters, a sportsman's paradise. Montana is gameless, save for stray coyotes, occasional flocks of prairie chickens and a few bear and deer about the National Park. There are too many sportsmen in Montana to leave much game there.

A black-haired, black-eyed and very earnest-looking man of splendid physical proportion, in front of whom the world is well known—Bobby, as a day or two ago, and said: "That is the original of the famous life-size 'Maturity' by Meiss, the author of Boucicault's 'The Merchant of Venice,' the 'Duchess of Malfi,' the 'Doctor Faustus' and the 'Art Connoisseurs.' In Paris it is valued at not less than $60,000 francs.

He is a master of the art of composition and tone it is a masterpiece." The picture seemed to stir his soul and his rare expression and the look in his eyes drew the little circle of respectful admirers about him. Before they knew it they found themselves drinking in a lecture on art such as few people drink in. The man's knowledge of the aesthetic, the physiologic, the aesthetic and the anatomic aspects of the picture were discussed and dissected. In the end they were asked if they had seen the "Maturity" in the Palais Royal. They had not, but the man was the kind of fellow who would have been apt not to pass it by with a monocle and a smile. "I am sorry," he said, "but I have not seen it." The man responded with a smile.

"The Spinet of the Mystery," he said, "is a mystery. Everybody knows him as a playwright, the author of 'Paul Kavanagh' and of 'Roberts' the medieval comedy, 'An Arrant Knave.'

But play writing is only a source of money, not a vocation. He is a scholar, a philosopher, a poet, a novelist, a philosopher. He paints like an artist. In fact, when he was 21 years old he was one of the best known and most popular actors in New York. His life is a book on metaphysics, upon which he is now busy, besides his plays. His metaphysical researches and acquirements are so great that he is regarded as a teacher of mental philosophy to whom college professors might, and indeed do, go to school.

The light-complexioned man leaning against the piano, with his thumbs in the arm-holes of his vest, is John Hunter, who shares with Maj. WHAT EFFECT THE GROWING WHEAT AND CORN ARE HAVING ON THE MARKET.

A Frustrated Attempt to Bull Wheat—Some Strength Shown by Corn—Provisions' Position—The Hog Market—Wall Street News on Stocks and Money—Local Markets—Pointers from the Pit.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

HICAGO, June 22.—They have been building wheat all week, and it closed about 20 lower than it was at the best. The distant futures bull better than cash and the nearby months, December setting back only about 10, while July lost 20 and June 50. Speculation is as a quick decision would have certainly been adverse to the board's interests.

WALL STREET.

Review of the Week at the Nation's Great Financial Center.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

WALL STREET, NEW YORK, June 22.—Operators who had the temerity to express bullish views upon the stock market a week ago to day, when news reached this city that the Chicago & Alton had notified Commissioner Walker of its intention to withdraw from the Interstate Railway Association, were generally laughed at for their pains. As a matter of fact, they more greatly in the minority and their options were at a discount. On the other hand, the bears plucked up courage in a way that was something wonderful to behold. Luck had been running against them so long that the bare possibility of a description of the association was looked upon as a godsend. All who cared to listen were regaled with tales of ruinous railroad wars and reduced dividends no dividends at all, the dissertation usually winding up with a tip to sell the first thing on Monday morning. Although this advice was followed in some instances and the most vigorous efforts were made to buy, the result was not what the bulls had expected.

The latest news from the Northwest is that rains have been very active, taking the week through. There has been a gradual shifting over of the July interest into September and December. First the bears were alarmed about their July wheat, putting out new lines in December. This put December to a 2 cent discount. Then the July bulls, harassed by the fear that the property might be delivered to them, and seeing no signs of the promised deal, began selling out their July and buying December. Up to the present writing this has narrowed the difference back to 10, and barring manipulation and cover of their July wheat, putting out new lines in December. This put December to a 2 cent discount. OMANCE and marriage to marriage—is a failure believing people is a paradox.

They think that romance flies out of the window when marriage comes in at the door. Still there are romantic marriages which break the monotony of hundred courtship, stereotyped proposal, "flat, unprofitable" kisses and a made-to-order 15-karat gold ring presented by the solitaires or the padlock bracelet. Even St. Louis, with no Gretna Green near and no Lochinvar round, has its share of romances which end in marriage. They are not always pleasant, but the couples are sometimes drawn over many apparently everyday ones marriages which are surrounded by strange and interesting circumstances.

A SWEET OLD LOVE.

One of the romantic weddings of early St. Louis was that of a young and prominent physician of this city, who was engaged to be married to a pretty St. Louis girl. There was a long and tender engagement and the marriage was about to be consummated when a "fit occurred in the late," and by degrees an entanglement occurring, the contract was dissolved. The young people separated, and the fair bride-elect became "another's." She became a brilliant married bride and fitted

Special Correspondence of SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, JUNE 20.—Mme. Recamier and Mme. de Staél could not be more dying to visit to Yonkers, N. Y., or Flushing, L. I., or any one of the beautiful suburbs within an hour's ride of New York, where the stately country houses are this month thrown open to gaily dressed, chatting, laughing women, who breakfast and lunch and pose on baycocks and drive, all among the roses, they would find that these two hostesses were gowned, even to the last button, in exact imitation of what these two leaders of the Parisian world introduced as the fashion of their day 100 years ago. These Recamier gowns are copied from old portraits and prints, and are adorned, in the rare cases where these are procurable, by historic sets of old silver buttons painted by Watteau and Bouguereau and raked from London and Paris bazaar shops or preserved as heirlooms in family as jewels and pearls in cases of velvet and satin which shall rival her diamonds. Buttons set which shall rival her diamonds after the designs of Fragonard, are the object of Mrs. Leslie's desire, an object not easily found. The international gossips married off-hand before her engagement was announced, and will have an exquisite set of Dampierre buttons, and a pair of diamond-set American girl who has seen them writes that they are very valuable, being undoubtedly unique.

Not many American women have succumbed to the "button set" mania. Mrs. A. F. Palmer, the wife of the theatrical manager, has done well. Diana, the young girl in spring a set of really beautiful flower buttons in increased ivory. Mrs. Cleveland appears to have a set of Louis XIV buttons, which are cased with six large exquisitely carved cameo buttons which were a gift to her on her last birthday. Some of the most artistic buttons are in the collection of the Princess Marthe Englehardt, whose imposing family name and high-bred St. Petersburgher ways have earned her a social life in Russia to draw much into the exchequer. The Princess Englehardt has family buttons which are cased in pearl diamonds and set in gold, which she wears with evening dresses. One beautiful set which she wears with evening dresses consists of ten gold buttons, each set in a diamond which has appeared on a Directory redingote of gray silk with black reverses and a white lace repeat. The work, the beauty and value of which are, of course, the Director and Louis XV. coats, so much worn this summer, which give buttons their opportunity, especially buttons of large size. The number of buttons is left to the discretion of the wearer, though a few buttons of considerable value impart more distinction to a toilet than a full quantity of small ones.

Buttons are quite sufficient, six is perhaps the most usual number with dressy women. Some buttons in the coat are set at the waist, others at the shoulder, or two or three buttons are sewn on the coat tails behind. The large pocket-slops are not so common in wear, though they may be used, but call for one or two buttons each when employed. Fifteen is about as many buttons as a handsome gown can hold, and its opportunities, can comfortably sustain.

Natural wood buttons are bought for rustic use either plain, or when case, the family crest is often put on them, and some are elaborately carved. The cameo buttons are beautiful as any made, and the variety of colors, including from pink to pale shade of cream, is impossible to a mere imagination. They are a great variety of lawn party and country house, and continue to hold their own in the church. Fine buttons are carved on pieces of couch shell and landscapes are introduced showing a castle with trees, castle and towers, a park with trees, with other forms of trees and wagons, women and children.

For young ladies who are fond of over-crowding their dresses with porcelain buttons possess bracelets and charms. Suppose the fete to be held is a soft India decorated with fine budding twigs, the grasses and flowers which are painted on the buttons perfectly; or suppose again it is one of the new wash silk with a geometrical design. Porcelain buttons are made to fit any shape to correspond with the stuff they are going on. They copy a spray of the flower or a whorl of the sorrel for the pattern, and you may have a set of six, eight, or ten buttons made to order at great cost from your own drawings. Or if you are "quite advanced," you may have a set of buttons of a substance rather than pronounced pattern, and have it characterized by painting porcelain buttons for it—you can buy them any shape you like, and in different colors and harmonizing patterns. On one shoulder a gallant in knee breeches and ruffles may bend over his shoulder, and another, Miss Emma, may copy to Colorado Springs to spend the summer.

Eliza B. and Mrs. Adams will spend the summer vacation in Europe, visiting first the Paris Exposition.

Mrs. Moses Ramsey gave a dinner party last week in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Linley.

Mrs. Alexander De Menil goes to New York in August, and thence to the sea shore for the summer.

Capt. and Mrs. Rollins, who have been visiting Mrs. John Overall of Pine street, have returned home.

Miss Susan Macdonald, who has been spending the summer weeks in the country, returned home last week.

Mr. George Goddard has taken a cottage at Hyannisport and will spend the summer at Caribbad.

Miss Alice E. Hart left last week to spend a short time with her relatives in St. Joseph.

J. D. McCaughan, a teacher, Miss Emma, has gone to Colorado Springs to spend the summer.

Mrs. Charles Barnays is with her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Spierling in Berlin, where she is superintending the musical education of her son, Ernest, and his sister, Mrs. Jerome Hill of the South Side. Every appointment of the bride was made by Mrs. Hill.

The groomsmen were Messrs. Norfleet and Sam Paine. After the ceremony and reception the bridal pair left for a tour of the Northern States.

For those who cannot compass the gold and silver and gilt antiques the modern make of buttons is a Director's roulette, the most novel, important, and loved by American workmen, and what used to be an important branch of delicate art workmanship promises to be revived. Buttons may never again be set upon the dress as thickly as in Edward I. days, when even the servants went from top to toe be-buttoned!

Now the horse slaves, clothed in pride.

They bush them in buttons as it were a bride.

But surely not steel buttons have come back to us in big, as intricate a pattern and as costly as the ones which were the fashion of the young Tory dandies who promenaded up and down the Broad Way in Revolutionary times, moving a dandy, dashingly brilliant ornaments in the eyes of a dazzled damsel. It is the matronly richness, velvet and satin, and the soft, flowing, days for buttons, but if Julius emancipates the bachelor as it does the maid, the embroidered waistcoats, silk breeches, dress coats lined with light silk, and the like, lace and brocade, silk sashes with which one or two gilded youth have already relieved the monotony of mahogany, be it well, but the buttons will dash back the sun. Buttons have already become an important feature of the masculine taste and padding of the waistcoats.

Some of the ornate buttons which have been brought into use by the fashion of redingotes and redingote casques are simply painted with a number of the most brilliant colors placed in such harmonious juxtaposition
